The Partner's Place

Dear Friends,

Change is often inevitable and sometimes necessary. Such is the case with our website. I am proud to announce that we have completely redesigned our company website and I hope that you will find it more useful, visiting it often as a resource for all your electronics needs. Let me briefly tell you what you soon will be able to find at www.componentsaz.com with more to come in the future.

Schedule a Service Call or Appointment

We know that many of you find it easier and more convenient to point and click than to pick up a phone and dial. That is great because now you can schedule a service call or other appointment through our website. We will promptly confirm available times and dates.

Product and Services Information

I bet that we offer some products and services that you are not aware of. Check out our products and services pages to better acquaint yourself with what we offer. If you don't find something you are looking for or are just unsure give us a call or shoot us an e-mail. We will respond promptly.

Instructional Videos

Need to know how to bypass a zone on your security system or arm it in the away mode? Check out the section with instructional videos. This will be an ever growing library of videos you can refer to for things such as your security system operation, central vacuum, home audio and video systems. Check back for more.

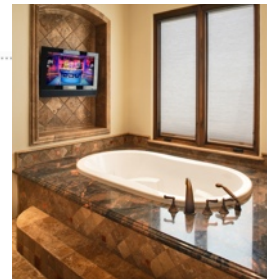

Components Blog

Ever wonder what's going on in the custom electronics world?

The Experience, that is what we are all about, and that is our focus. When it comes to building your new dream home, remodeling an existing home, or even designing and building an innovative and inviting office Components is ready to create the experiences you desire.

It is amazing how quickly technology changes. It is often hard even for us to keep up with it. Before going off to search some "sponsored" blog site check out ours. We promise to give you unbiased opinions and information about many different products and services available today. If there is a topic you would like us to specifically address on the blog let us know. We would be glad to do so.

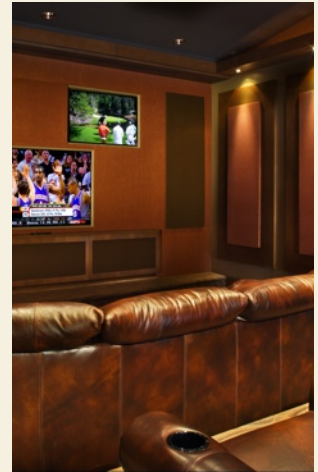

Newsletter Archive

As many of you know we send out a quarterly newsletter. Since we don't really expect any of you to save our newsletters feel free to check out the archive on the website. There you will find newsletters dating back many years covering lots of great topics.

We hope that you will find our new website to be a great resource. Take some time to explore it and save it as one of your favorites. We will watch for you there!

Sincerely,

Jason C. Evans, CEO

Video On Demand - The latest in movie rentals

Most of us love watching a good movie at home, but have you noticed that the way we are getting our movies has been changing? The days of driving to the video store and renting your movie only to drive back a few days later to return it are quickly disappearing. The latest trend in movie rentals is "Video On Demand".

Video On Demand allows you to sit back in your big comfy chair and order up the movie of your choice. Your movie is then delivered either by streaming the content through a set-top box like your cable box allowing you to view your movie in real time. Some will download to a device such as a computer, digital video recorder, personal video recorder or portable media player for viewing at a later time. You save time as most videos are instantly available to you and you save money by not paying for the gas to get you there and back (not to mention the late fees if you're like me).

So, not sure if you have what it takes to get Video On Demand? No problem, there are many ways to get Video On Demand. Services like Cox Cable, Direct TV and Dish Network all have Video On Demand services. NetFlix has a Video On Demand service through the LG Blue Ray player, Blockbuster Total Access is an online service and there are many others as well. Also available to you is the Vudu Video On Demand box and service. If you have questions on the best options for you and your family please feel free to contact us and we would be happy to go over the specifics of each service with you.

From all of us at Components we wish you a happy and safe summer. We hope you'll stay cool inside and enjoy some instant gratification by getting your movies through an on demand service. For more information on Video On Demand services or for help with getting Video On Demand at your house, you can contact us at 480-361-9500. We look forward to being of service to you.
